

Winter Gala

January 13, 2012 - 7pm

The Fine Arts Department would like to invite you to its newest event. This coming January 13 at 7 pm, the Hamel auditorium will host the second annual Winter Gala. Phil-Mont continues to be blessed with talented students in the arts. When considering the work that God has done at Phil-Mont in the past and continues to do even now, we are thankful. One challenge to us is not only how to showcase our current students, but how to begin the process of connecting with what is now generations of artists. We would like to give an opportunity for them to 'show their stuff' to the current community.

What makes this event different from the excellent Christmas Concerts already experienced this season? Imagine an elegant evening of performing and visual arts highlighting the excellent skills of Phil-Mont's students, parents, teachers and alumni. Refreshments are to be served throughout the evening.

The Winter Gala also includes an exhibition of visual arts from our alumni. The catch is that work will be displayed anonymously. The art will be hung in the building and posted online in the days leading up to the event. Purchasers may choose whichever piece they like, then at the end of the evening check the back to find the name of the artist. Who knows? Maybe you'll get an original Tomer, Liegel or Sawyer. Works are sold for $50, so bring cash or check to carry. Proceeds help fund off campus educational experiences and competitions for students in the arts. Many artists have already expressed their eagerness to participate. Expectations are high; last year we sold half the pieces displayed!

Energy for this event came from the teachers at Phil-Mont, but its realization comes from you, our community. So please join us to celebrate the God's work in the arts at Phil-Mont on January 13.
